ST. COLMCILLE'S PARISH NEWSLETTER — JANUARY 1990

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG BAD WOLF?!

Aren't you worth more than birds? (6.26)

As I write it is actually New Year's Day 1990 — my goodness, it feels strange jotting down the actual figures. My native place, at which I am paying an after-Christmas visit, looks particularly good in the January morning sunshine, interspersed with gentle showers. Had my broolly with me, as I made my “un-

My saving power will rise on you like the sun (4.2)

winding” walk, in the quiet country roads, within shouting distance of the sea. It is a great setting, as once again, one takes a closer look at the mystery of life.

This is a new decade, as well as New Year, so perhaps there is a strengthening of enthusiasm, concerning new year resolutions. It is all part of trying to cushion oneself against the rough edges of life. Well friend, I've got news for you, in spite of our best efforts there will always be hassle. So then are we to sit back and give up the struggle? Absolutely no!

What my thesis would be, is that a smooth ride in life, is simply not on. So our resolutions and efforts must always bear this in mind. Rather than, moaning about one's sad lot, let's rise and shine. Take it from me, the Lord is by no means slow or grudging, with his helping hand and support. Incidentally my 1990 “rise and shine” bit, is infinite, infinite patience, and all out war on procrastination — the latter to come into effect next week, or maybe the week after!

I was talking to an old friend recently, who has “died” on more than one or two occasions, because of indifferent health, but she is positive and light hearted. She has faith in my prayers, which is more than I have myself, but praise the Lord, I have tremendous faith in God. “Without me, you can do nothing”, and I sure take him at his word.

Anyway my friend says to me, “Pray for such and such a person”, always thinking of others, which is typical of her big hearted nature. And then she asked me, “And how are you”? “I'm fine” was my reply, “God is very good to me, and I don't know why” Never short of the bit of crack, in a flash, she countered. “And I don't know why either”!

In reality never forget, come what may, God is very good to us all, so “Be not afraid”.

1980 — 1990 — My How We've Grown

Even the most unsentimental people seem to be gripped by a touch of nostalgia at the ending of the old year. My mother had the right idea. Every New Year's eve, even if the house was full of visitors, she would go to the back door just before midnight and open it to let the old year out. If it had been a good one she would say: "It's been a great year thank God — sorry you're leaving". If it had been a bad one it was quite different. "Out you go" she'd say, "I'm glad to see the back of you". Then the front door would be opened to let the New Year in. This performance was a great source of amusement to all present. It still is, especially to my family and yes, old habits die hard and my front and back door ritual is, I'm afraid, regarded as rather 'quaint'.

Yet sometimes I think that the ending of the old year is a sort of signpost for change in our lives. A quick assessment of what has gone and a new beginning — a hope for the future. The ending of 1989 though, was more significant and when I closed the door on it, I closed the door on a decade and looking back I began to think of all the changes that have taken place in Knocklyon. Those of us who have been here from the beginning have watched every step in the growth of our splendid community. By 1980, the days of celebrating mass under the big tree at the end of Knocklyon Avenue or inside the McNerney canteen had long since passed. Even the temporary church had gone. We now had a beautiful new Church, a Primary School and a population of 8,000 people. Fr. Paddy Staunton was still with us as our Parish Priest and he had been joined by Fr. Arthur Fitzpatrick and Fr. Frank McCartan.

1982 saw the arrival of Fr. David Weakliam and in December of that year he introduced the second attempt to produce a Parish Newsletter. This attempt proved successful and is still going strong. The first issue however did come in for some criticism. It was produced under the name of "The Nocklyon News". I often wonder if this brainchild of Father Weakliam was coined for a purpose. Maybe it had the desired results. We were inundated with complaints and the title was quickly changed to "The Knocklyon News". Today, the Newsletter is perhaps one of the main means of communication in the parish and now reaches 3,000 homes.

During these years, we saw the disappearance of large stretches of green fields and the appearance of many new estates. One of the funniest episodes I remember took place before the building of the houses at Greenacres. A large part of the beautiful garden of the house had been sold to the builders and somehow word got around that the contents of the garden were going a-begging. The next two weeks, the trek to the site took on all the appearance of the Klondike gold rush. People armed with all types of garden implements descended in droves. They dug, pulled, lifted. Every means of transport was used to carry the goodies home — baskets, prams, bikes — even ladders with men at each end and children on either side were used to remove larger specimens. It was like a great outing and when the mission was accomplished there was not a flower, hedge or shrub to be seen. Instant fully mature gardens appeared as if by magic. Even to this day, whenever I pass a certain row of tall, elegant trees, I marvel that they were so near to extinction by the bulldozer and now grace the landscape. Indeed, the garden of "Greenacres" lives on in many a garden in Knocklyon.

Firhouse Road has changed beyond recognition and sometimes it is hard to remember what used to be there. Yet, not so long ago, it was just a narrow country road. The big red house, said to be associated with Katherine Tynan, slipped quietly out of the picture. The Hen Factory (that's what we used to call it) just behind Lansdowne has gone. The sight and sound of hundreds of gobbling turkeys being packed into trucks for the Christmas market in the field beside Charleville, the cows, the rabbits that lived opposite the bus stop and the two cottages at the end of the Avenue, have all bitten the dust. Soon the Knocklyon Road will change and from it will emerge a new motorway which will link up with the Southern Cross.

Yet, it is not all bad. We adapt very quickly to change, especially if it is for the better. We are very lucky in Knocklyon. Amenities are on our doorstep and yet the beauty of the mountains are but a step away. Think of all our good things — Our Church, our Schools, our friendly busy Superquinn Shopping Centre, even the fairly recent arrival of a bus service from Scholarstown Road, and our newly acquired Community Centre.

One thing is certain. Our greatest achievement over the last decade must surely be the wonderful community spirit that has grown up and stayed with us, despite the ever growing population. For this we must be grateful to our Carmelite priests who have given us the opportunity to grow together and, of course, the many people who have given so much of their time and effort to building this community spirit. In this month's Newsletter, we are again publishing an updated version of the Parish Directory. All ages are catered for, all tastes and whatever your needs there is a niche somewhere for you.

Perhaps we should close our back door on the last decade and say: "Despite everything — a few ups — a few downs — some sad times — a lot of good times — this is a great community in which to live. Yes. It was a good decade". 1990 is with us. May the next 10 years be as good — or even better than the last.

KNOCKLYON YOUTH CLUB

The Youth Club completed 1989 with a disco for the Junior and Senior Clubs on 16th December during which trophies were presented to the winners and runners-up of the Football, Draughts and Snooker competitions. The pictures show some of the happy recipients.

All things considered it was a very successful beginning to the Youth Club Year and credit is due to the organizing abilities of its Chairman, Michael Clifford, whose persistence in getting things done has resulted in a thriving Club.

Activities for 1990 started with a disco on 6th January for the Young Adults. The night was a great success due to the Young Adult Committee who organized and managed affairs in a businesslike way. The rapport between the Young Adult Committee and the Youth Club Committee is excellent and augurs well for the future of this section.

Minister Comes to Knocklyon

On Tuesday 9th January the Minister for Transport and Tourism, Mr. Seamus Brennan met the combined committees of the Knocklyon Community Council and Post Primary Committee to discuss the issues of the proposed school at Scholarstown Road and the difficulties of securing post primary places for the children of Knocklyon.

After the introductions were completed by Martin Nolan of the Community Council the Minister was briefed by Vincent Kenny, Chairman Post Primary Committee. Mr. Brennan was reminded that the proposal to build the school was supported over the past ten years by eight previous Ministers for Education and that prior to Mrs. O'Rourke's reversal, the contract had actually been advertised in the national newspapers for tender.

Since then, the situation in Knocklyon has worsened and there are currently almost 1260 additional houses planned for construction over the next few years. Mr. Kenny reviewed the circumstances leading to the Ministers decision not to proceed with a new school. He pointed out that the falling pupil numbers, which are a feature in many peripheral areas, are a problem which should be tackled at source, i.e. in the affected areas. This should be done within the Minister's own rationalisation plans. The circumstances in Knocklyon, with a growing population approaching eleven thousand, were against the national trend and could only realistically be dealt with by proceeding with the building of the post primary school.

The consequences of massive movements of children leaving Knocklyon each day at peak traffic hours shows its effect, not only in traffic chaos but also in increasing social problems in the area.

Mr. Brennan reminded the Committee of his commitment to the proposal to build the new school and promised to raise the issue directly with the Minister.

A number of speakers spoke on the necessity of Knocklyon Community having a post-primary facility to cater for daytime and night-time education activities. Finally, it was emphasised to Mr. Brennan that the 11½ acre site belongs effectively to this community and that pending the construction of the school, the site should be available for use by the many sporting groups active in Knocklyon.

A further meeting is being arranged.

YOUNG ONES ONLY

ACTIVE AGED

Hi Everyone,

How are you all? Happy New Year! Things are getting back to normal after the Christmas holidays – homework, games, etc. A new group of Altar Servers have begun training in the Church here. Well over 60 boys and girls put their names forward to train as servers. Certainly the young people of Knocklyon are full of enthusiasm, so stand up and take a bow and a good clap on the back because you all deserve it! Mind you, we might have to extend the sanctuary (that is the part of the Church around the Altar) – to fit all the new servers, but that's a different story. The boys and girls of sixth class are busy getting ready for their confirmation, which takes place in February – you might say a special prayer for them. In confirmation we receive the gift of the Holy Spirit in a very special way giving us strength to work for God's kingdom just like Jesus. So this is a very important time for these boys and girls and we wish them every blessing.

Talking about enthusiasm, I know a lot of you helped raise money for charity over Christmas. The Junior Folk Group raised almost £400 for Concern by carol singing. Ms. Cramer's class raised money for two lovely Christmas hampers. Deirdre, Niamh and Orla Cooper, Sinead Farrell and Emma Fee put on a play in their garden to raise money and about 20 people came along. They had lemonade and biscuits after the play. Kim McKenna, Angie Casey and Karen Duffy from Beverly went carol singing. So well done to you all.

All the best for now.
Lots of love

Fr. Joe

Enjoying the party

Do you sometimes wonder how you will spend your days and nights when you retire and no longer find yourself rushing in from work and out again to attend a meeting or a concert or some other recreational activity? In other words, does it depress you when you think of the time, fast approaching, when the pace of life slows down and you find time hanging heavily on your hands? Well, let the "goings-on" of our Active Aged group here provide you with inspiration for future planning. They have a talent for combining work, exercise and recreation to produce the maximum satisfaction and enjoyment.

Before Christmas they were busily engaged in inventing suitable ornaments and decorative creations for the festive occasion. Their physical well-being was achieved by frequent practice on the bowling alley. Dancing is also a favourite pastime. They are most proficient in that area aided by a highly skilled coach.

The Group enjoys an outing now and then, day and night. Their last get-together was held in Sancta Maria on 16th December. The evening began with a sumptuous meal to which the members did justice, helped by a 'little something to aid the digestion', not that aid was needed, the quality of the food and cooking being excellent.

After the meal, the sound of lively music from an adjoining room soon had the guests trooping in that direction. It was a great night judging by the merry laughter, the happy faces and the tapping of twinkling feet. The occasion attracted some visitors from the convent. In fact, a couple of the septuagenarians were enticed to take the floor with the revellers.

I TOOK IT ALL FOR GRANTED

I took it all for granted. The way I could run to the shops, do my housework, run up to Mass, play football in the park with my little girl, jive at a dance, concentrate, read, and then – very suddenly it all stopped. I had a brain haemorrhage and for the past six months I have been very slowly working at coming back to being the person I was, able to do the things I need to do, and I know that I am one of the very lucky ones. I mean that with all my heart. I thank God every day that I am alive, but I also want to thank you, the people of Knocklyon, for all your prayers during the time of my illness. They were a great means of strength to me. I had an inner peace amid the outer chaos that was happening. I could have died, I could be paralysed, but I'm not, and it may seem a little over the top but it was like as if I was being protected from all the worst elements of my illness. The only prayers I remember saying through it all were "Stay with me" and He did, and when the pain was bad, "Breath in Jesus, breath out pain". But I know it was your prayers that gave me that peace.

I have always felt that Knocklyon is a caring community, but now I know it is, I have experienced it first hand and for me it has been a wonderful experience. The number of people who sent cards, came to see me, brought flowers, meals, made enquiries through family and friends. The Eucharistic Ministers who brought the Eucharist and helped take away the feeling of isolation from Church and the Sacraments. It was a great feeling of support that people (you) really cared.

For me too, it was God saying He cared, as I believe very much that God loves and cares for each one of us and one of the ways He shows us is through one another. So each time someone came to see me in their eyes I could see Jesus saying to me "Bernie I love you, I care for you," and that for me has been very special. Maybe I needed a brain haemorrhage to really believe Him.

So thank you for allowing God to use you in this very special way, and I hope I will never take the wonderful gift of Life for granted again.

Thank you,
Bernie Rossney
